

ASTORIA'S FIGHT

Commission may after hearing make a supplemental order prescribing the just and reasonable proportion of such joint rate to be received by each carrier party thereto, which order shall take effect as a part of the original order.

The commission may also after hearing on a complaint, establish through routes and joint rates as the maximum to be charged and prescribe the division of such rates as hereinbefore provided, and the terms and conditions under which such through routes shall be operated, when that may be necessary to give effect to any provision of this Act, and the carriers complained of have refused or neglected to voluntarily establish such through routes and joint rates, provided no reasonable or satisfactory through route exists and this provision shall apply when one of the connecting carriers is water line.

If the owners of property transported under this Act, directly or indirectly renders any service connected with such transportation, or furnishes any instrumentality used therein, the charge and allowance therefore shall be no more than is just and reasonable, and the omission may, after hearing on a complaint, determine what is a reasonable charge as the maximum to be paid by the carrier or carriers for the service so rendered or for the use of the instrumentality so furnished, and fix the same by appropriate order, which order shall have the same force and effect and be enforced in like manner as the orders above provided for in this section.

The foregoing enumeration of powers shall not exclude any power which the commission would otherwise have in the making of an order under the provisions of this Act.

This is Astoria's big stick!

With this weapon she must go after the only transportation rate in the land that is denied her, the common-point rate on grain! She has all else!

Astoria has been used so long and successfully as a "club," herself, by means of which the O. R. & N. and the Hill lines have coerced the city of Portland into concessions of various and valuable sorts, that she should be in prime and practical shape to wage a battle of her own for the one thing of all others she needs most in the way of commercial resource; and which is withheld simply because it is of extraordinary advantage and value to her.

Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, all have the common grain rate, the seaboard rate, while this city and port, 100, 157 and 180 miles nearer the sea than the cities named, respectively, is deliberately denied it, because, Mr. Adams, the leading traffic man of the North Bank road, and all others of similar rank and employment, do not "see the use nor advantage of extending it to Astoria at this time!"

There are men in this city today, good Astoria citizens, who are quietly fighting the extension of this rate to Astoria, because it is part and parcel of their duty, as representatives of the various lines, in a legal, or other business sense, to do so; and no one blames them for the stand they take, in view of their engagements, however they might wish it otherwise. The arguments of these men cannot be taken as wholesome pleas against the granting of this commercial boon to this place, since every statement they put forth is tinged with the doctrine of dubious dawdling and final disavowment.

Astoria is the only seaport on the Pacific coast without the seaboard rate on grain; and her solitariness adds emphasis to the wrong that is done her. There is not a single commercial disadvantage that can be pleaded against her, as to location, distance, grade time, or other commanding consideration in the category of railway requirements, usually pleaded in contravention of such demands as this. Louis Hill, president of the Great Northern, has been here and proclaimed it the ideal seaport of the upper coast and predicted all manner of things for it, in a future that he himself must have suggestive part in shaping. Other men, whose words are worth balancing in such a great argument, such as Harvey W. Scott, have said the same thing, but apparently they dare not reiterate them. It is common knowledge, the country over, that Astoria is the most accessible port north of San Francisco, within all the rules that govern direct and swift transportation, and yet the railways of the country, seeking just such touch and bearing upon the sea, are held up within the 100 miles (or more) to gratify the commercial greed of a beggarly handful of English and Scotch shippers, while the inland farmer is robbed of the vast sums of cost incident to the inland haul of the ship to these up-country ports, which sums are included in the existing rates and might be obviated upon a basis of direct, through shipment to the ship and sea.

The constant and unwavering argument of the railway interests is that Astoria has no shippers of grain, and therefore no right to ask for something she cannot use. This high-handed conclusion utterly ignores the right of the port to have this advantage, tentatively, upon the fixed tariffs of the day, in order that its citizens may have the one, exact and compelling allurements for just such business, an advantage quite as valuable to the roads as to the port itself. Astoria has no grain-shippers because she has not the rate applicable to the business; which is a crying shame on the face of it, and accentuates the justice of her claim if she had no other plea to offer. But the railways are notorious for the ease with which they pass up questions of abstract justice, or bury them in masses of the complicated technicalities; and the only avenue of relief left open to the minor community is to go direct to the power that supercedes even the dictum of the amalgamated and gigantic authority that imposes its wanton, excessive and crushing systems of cost upon the shippers of the country.

It is time for this people to get together, line up their grievance and go after relief, direct to fountain-head, without further dealings with the transportation concerns, under the aegis of the June, 1906, amendment to the Interstate commerce law quoted above. Astoria has waited too long at the behest of one influence after another, none of which were primarily favorable to her, and many of which were simply stalling her. She has been completely side-tracked, in more than one instance, by the railways nearest in touch with her development, and her future demands that a standard be set by the merchants and shippers and business-men generally, acting through the Chamber of Commerce, and upon the broadest possible lines, for the giving of this essential and deserved advantage. She may have to go to the roads for it in the first instance and be turned down of record in order to secure a predicate for subsequent action; but when that action is taken it should have the full, acknowledged, aggressive spirit of Astoria behind it and it should be pleaded before the Interstate commerce Commission by a group of the strongest and ablest men she can send to Washington.

Half way measures have been exhausted; they are not wanted. Astoria must spend money and brains and time on this errand and give way to no one, here or elsewhere; until she is in possession of the common-point rate on grain or know, finally, and absolutely, that it is not within the scope of the law to give it to her, and WHY!

A Faithful Friend.

"I have used Chamberlain's colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this—my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by Frank Hart, druggist.

BIG MANHATTAN BLAZE.

Early Morning Fire in New York Creates Immense Excitement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The lower harbor was lighted up early this morning by a fire which destroyed the asbestos drying plant, the largest within a radius of three miles and a building of the H. W. Johns-Manville Company, South Brooklyn. Four alarms brought the fire companies and fleet of fire boats. The fire was under control after an hour's fight. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

The burned building was a five story brick structure at the east end of a row of a half dozen others. By quick work the firemen saved the paintshop, a three story wooden affair, adjoining the burning building.

Thousands of persons got out of bed to watch the fire. It took the reserves from nearby police stations to keep the crowd from getting in the way of the firemen.

MOUSTACHE TO ORDER.

Prisoner Ordered To Grow One For Purpose of Identification.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Suffolk county authorities have taken a novel way to establish the fact of a prisoner's connection with a band of robbers. They have sent him to jail for two months as a vagrant and ordered that his moustache be allowed to grow. When his moustache had attained its full growth it is believed he will be recognized as one of a band of robbers who are believed to have a clearing house for plunder taken
